

Reflections On A Life To Be Remembered

As much as someone is loved, remembering and summarizing feelings about them for a bronze marker or plaque after their life has completed is often challenging, especially with so many emotions involved and so many other decisions to be made at this time.

If you are having difficulty, we've created this questionnaire to help inspire your thoughts for an epitaph that will more closely capture the essence of the person being celebrated. By answering all—or just some—of the questions and reflecting on them as a guide for the epitaph, we hope you will find this helpful.
